

How do you compare to others who have participated in this activity?

The campfire Mike at 02:16 AM, 29 Feb 2012 via web

Please post your responses, Thanks! Facilitator at 14:20 PM, 02 Mar 2012 via web

- The campfire is like the group sharing ideas and experiences, passing on their perspectives so they become part of the common knowledge of t#1 Kristy at 14:25 PM, 02 Mar 2012 via web
- You don't really know what you know until you can apply it with 25 people watching you. Bob 4 at 14:26 PM, 02 Mar 2012 via web
- Learning & application of knowledge is directly related to life. We need to teach to learn for life, not just the content being taught.4 at 14:26 PM, 02 Mar 2012 via web
- the group.#1 Kristy at 14:26 PM, 02 Mar 2012 via web
- The part of a student's learning that may be compared to a cave is internal knowledge - deeply held beliefs. The epiphany! Larry #3 at 14:26 PM, 02 Mar 2012 via web
- The cave is anytime students reflect or prepare on their ownJeff3 at 14:26 PM, 02 Mar 2012 via web
- The Watering Hole- The cultural exchange and the peer learning is directly related to the facilitated classroom Number 2 at 14:26 PM, 02 Mar 2012 via web
- instead of having one big CHIEF we learn from many little chiefs as we gather around our own water hole Mike2 at 14:27 PM, 02 Mar 2012 via web
- The campfire is telling stories about experiences and knowledge.kristan1 at 14:29 PM, 02 Mar 2012 via web